GIN

London dry gin (despite its name), can be produced anywhere in the world and is what most people think of when they think of gin. Dry gin, means there is nothing artificial added and no added sugar. All flavours are natural from botanicals. Juniper is the most dominant flavour within gin, however, most are also steeped with fresh or dried citrus peels before distillation which will give a bright, citrus flavour. Try one of the below in a classic martini with a simple twist of lemon.

Hayman's UK 12

Bombay Sapphire UK 12

Tanqueray Dry UK 12

Colombo No.7 Sri Lanka 16

Whitley Neil Handcrafted UK 16

Sipsmith Dry UK 17

Sloe gin is made by infusing quality gin with ripe sloe drupes, which are a small fruit relative of the plum. A little sugar is then added to extract the juice from the fruit. The result is a liqueur that's tart, but with a delicious richness and depth of flavour. We recommend trying neat or on the rocks.

Plymouth Sloe UK 14

Monkey 47 Sloe GER 18

New Western style or Contemporary style are gins which have a predominant flavour of anything other than Juniper. Although juniper is always present and legally required to be called a gin, the gin overall may have a character which emphasizes other botanicals. The most common one you might be familiar with is Hendrick's, flavoured with cucumber and rose. We recommend trying these with your favourite tonic or soda.
